Ongoing Exhibits

“Crossroads: The Art of Gordon Parks” (ends April 11)

Photographer, poet, novelist, composer, musician and filmmaker, Gordon Parks (1912-2006) spent a lifetime shattering barriers in his pursuit of truth, beauty, social justice and artistic expression. This retrospective includes examples of his work in documentary and fashion photography as well as his later color work. Photos are paired with highlights from the Gordon Parks Papers, the artist's archive recently acquired by WSU and part of Special Collections and University Archives at Ablah Library. Closed Mondays. Free. For more information, visit <http://www.ulrich.wichita.edu> or call (316) 978-3001.

Ulrich Museum of Art, Wichita State University, 1845 Fairmount St.

“Wild Music” (ends April 25)

“The Adventures of Mr. Potato Head” (ends May 9)

In the national traveling exhibit Wild Music, celebrate every note of every player (including you!) in the symphony of life as you learn the music of nature and the very nature of music. In the Jam Room, play acoustic and electronic instruments to create your own music. Record a video of how music has affected your life. Attendees can also travel around the world and beyond with the much-loved character Mr. Potato Head. In this colorful, hands-on national traveling exhibit, designed especially for visitors ages 3-8 years (but many adults will enjoy too!), join him on treks to outer space, an archaeological dig, the sea and the jungle. Closed Mondays. Fee. For more information, visit www.exploration.org or call (316) 660-0600.

Exploration Place, 300 N. McLean Blvd.

"Separate Is Not Equal" (ends July 14)

In partnership with the McCormick School Museum, the Kansas Humanities Council has awarded a Kansans Tell Their Stories Community Heritage Grant to the Research on Black Wichita (ROBW) project. “Wichita Public Schools: Separate Is Not Equal” explores the experiences of Black students in Wichita Public Schools between 1873 and 1958. Free. For more information, visit <http://library.wichita.edu> or call (316) 978-3481.

WSU Libraries, 1845 N. Fairmount

“Pastel National” (ends May 19)

This national exhibit showcases 83 rich and vibrant works of pastel art created from a wide variety of subjects and techniques. It is juried by Doug Dawson, American pastel artist, who was inducted into the Pastel Society of America Hall of Fame in 2008. The exhibit runs concurrently with “Wall to Wall: Paintings by Darlene Wall” and ceramics by Monette Mark. Closed Mondays. Free. For more information, visit www.wcfta.com or call (316) 634-ARTS.

Wichita Center for the Arts, 9112 E. Central

“American Chronicles: The Art of Norman Rockwell” (ends May 30)
“Mingled Visions: Selections from Edward S. Curtis’s ‘The North American Indian’” (ends June 27)
“Heritage of the West: A Romance Gone Forever: The M.C. Naftzger Collection of Paintings, Sculptures and Drawings by Charles M. Russell” (ends Dec. 31)
Closed Mondays. Fee. Free admission on Saturday. For more information, visit www.wichitaartmuseum.org or call (316) 268-4921.
Wichita Art Museum, 1400 W. Museum Blvd.

Tuesday, April 6

6:00 p.m. – Andrew Clements reading & signing
Acclaimed bestselling children’s writer Andrew Clements (author of “Frindle”) will come to Watermark Books & Café on a tour launching his new series for readers ages 9 to 12: “Benjamin Pratt & the Keepers of the School: We the Children.” To pre-order books or to have copies held and signed, call Watermark at (316) 682-1181.

Restaurants

You may know that Wichita is the birthplace of Pizza Hut and White Castle. New concepts and restaurants are tested here because Wichita is such a great market! This is not a comprehensive list of all of Wichita's offerings, but some selections to show what makes Wichita a unique treat for those who love food! You won't find national chains on this list. Ask at the information booth for help finding your favorites.
