

To Infinity and Beyond (the Hashmark): Moving to an Electronic Reference Recording System – a Debate

KLA/MPLA Joint Conference 2009
Wichita, KS, April 3, 2009

Presenters

Danielle Theiss-White, General Reference Coordinator, dtheiss@ksu.edu
 Erin Fritch, Reference Generalist, melia@ksu.edu
 Laura Bonella, Reference Generalist, laurab@ksu.edu
 Jason Coleman, Reference Generalist, coleman@ksu.edu

Sources For Additional Information About Libstats

Theiss-White, Danielle, Jason Coleman, and Kristin Whitehair. “Moving Beyond the Hash Mark: Capturing the Whole reference Transaction for Effective Decision Making,” Library Data: Empowering Practice and Persuasion. Ed. Darby Orcutt. Chicago: Libraries Unlimited, forthcoming.

Kansas Libstats Google Group: <http://groups.google.com/group/kansas-libstats>

This group contains presentations and handouts from conferences and workshops where one or more of the authors have provided information about Libstats

Google Group created by the developers of Libstats: <http://groups.google.com/group/libstats>

Where to Get Libstats and How to Install it

Libstats is open source software and can be downloaded for free at the Libstats’ Google Code page: <http://code.google.com/p/libstats/>. That page also provides links to an installation guide and a demo database. Detailed installation instructions are also available from the Kansas Libstats Google Group.

Hale Library Help Desk | Add Question Page | Reports | Log out

Quick Search: | Advanced Search

Library Stats : Add Question

Location	Patron Type	Question Type	Time Spent	Question Format	Initials	Backdate
help desk reception roam office home	undergrad grad faculty staff other/unknown	directional reference tech referral technical referral	0-1 1-5 6-10 10-30 30+	in person email phone im text	jmc

Question

Answer

Last question added from this computer at 7/24 12:31 PM